

2014 CPAC Bursary Recipient: Grace Zhang

Grace Zhang is a pharmacy student at the University of Alberta. Her passion for patient-care, collaboration with others, and interest in Pharmacy's expanding scope of practice all contributed to her desire to study pharmacy. And study she did, achieving a GPA of 98.8%! She is also involved in the Alberta Pharmacy Students' Association to advocate for the continuing change to the practice of this profession. She wants to bring awareness of the profession's expanded scope of practice to more people.

Grace believes that active engagement in the community in addition to academic success is essential to student achievement. She has volunteered for over four years at the Canada Olympic Park. As a volunteer, her activities ranged from leading children in summer camps to planning and organizing events. She is also an active volunteer at the Good Samaritan Society (a long-term care centre for seniors). She has found a great sense of fulfillment in making a difference in the quality of life of the residents at the centre by providing client-centered care.
